June 18 — 20

08:30 — 18:00

For this year's 3daysofdesign, we invite you to experience a reimagining of our iconic design heritage. Rooted in Scandinavian minimalism and timeless aesthetics, we present a fresh view of our design DNA—still functional, still form-conscious, but seen through a contemporary lens.

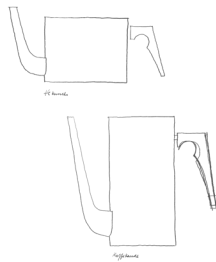

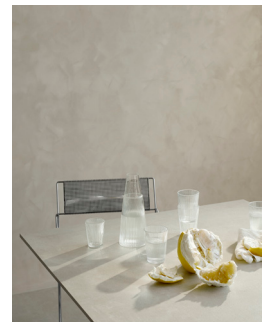

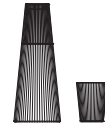

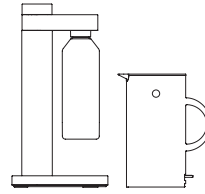

This edition also marks the introduction of a new category: soft home and textiles, launched in collaboration with renowned textile designer Vibeke Klint. The collection adds warmth and tactility to our universe, enriching the way we live with design.

We further invite you to rediscover the richness of craftsmanship as Knabstrup Keramik presents its ceramics, and Tortus brings clay to life through live throwing sessions.

Stelton Soft Home

Stelton enters the world of textiles with a heartfelt homage to legendary Danish weaver Vibeke Klint. Rooted in her remarkable design legacy, the Stelton Soft Home collection bridges classic craftsmanship with contemporary Scandinavian aesthetics—rediscovering timeless techniques through a modern lens infused with unexpected edge.

At the core are Klint's original winding samples—intimate compositions of thread and color that capture her poetic approach to form and rhythm. With great care, Stelton has reimagined selected works—honoring Klint's artistry while crafting a new visual narrative that surprises with bold contrasts and subtle statements.

Knabstrup Keramik and Tortus unite two worlds in a remarkable collaboration that celebrates the mastery of the past and the vision of the future. Rooted in over 125 years of ceramic heritage, combined with a modern approach to form and material, this is more than just a collection—it's a story of time, passion, and the evolution of craftsmanship.

At the heart of this collaboration is acclaimed ceramicist Eric Landon, the founder of Tortus. His intuitive approach to clay pushes the boundaries between the classical and the experimental. His aesthetic is raw, sculptural, and timeless—a perfect contrast to Knabstrup's rich legacy.
